

2020 U.S. Figure Skating Championships August 2019 News

Just in time for the Labor Day Weekend, we've got the latest news on the 2020 U.S. Figure Skating Championships for you.

2020 U.S. Championships Quick Summary

The U.S. Figure Skating Championships will be held Monday, January 20 through Sunday, January 26, 2020 at the Greensboro Coliseum Complex in Greensboro, NC. The event will feature the very best figure skating athletes in our country. Expected to participate are Olympic medalist and reigning World Champion, Nathan Chen, and our country's youngest-ever female champion, Alyssa Liu, who is the first U.S. women's competitor to land a quadruple jump in national competition. National champions will be crowned in Ladies, Men's, Pairs, and Ice Dance. The U.S. Championships will include a FanFest as well as open practice sessions in a second Olympic-quality ice rink installed on-site at the Coliseum Complex specifically for the Championships. Both the FanFest and practice sessions on the second rink are free. Athletes, coaches, officials, and fans alike will be able to enjoy the convenience and comfort of the entirety of the Championships – Competition, Practice, and FanFest – being conducted in one building, under one roof at the Greensboro Coliseum Complex. Individual Tickets To Go On Sale Sept. 20!

The biggest news of the day is that sales of individual session tickets for the 2020 U.S. Figure Skating Championships will launch at 10am EDT on Friday, September 20, 2019!

The impending start of individual ticket sales means there are at least two important things that figure skating fans should keep in mind:

- 1) Urgency to Purchase Ticket Packages for the Best Seats: Once individual tickets go on sale to the public, it reduces the opportunity to purchase a ticket package, such as the All-Event Ticket Package or the Championship Weekend Ticket Package, and get the very best seats. So if you are interested in buying a ticket package for the Championships, from now to the third week in September is going to be the best possible opportunity to secure the best seat locations for event ticket packages. To purchase an All-Event or Weekend Ticket Package now, please click here.
- 2) Pre-Sale Purchase Opportunity: The Greensboro Coliseum Complex, host venue for the Championships, is planning to conduct a pre-sale for Figure Skating fans who receive this newsletter, and ticket purchasers who have previously bought tickets for figure skating or related events at the Coliseum. This will involve a special opportunity to purchase individual tickets prior to tickets going on sale to the public. The pre-sale opportunity is currently projected to open on Thursday, September 18. If you are receiving this newsletter then you will receive an announcement from us either on or before Sept. 18th with instructions for how to access the pre-sale.

Volunteer Opportunities Now Open for USMS Members

U.S. Figure Skating has opened the registration process to volunteer for the 2020 U.S. Figure Skating Championships to current U.S. Figure Skating members. (For those of you who are not members, you will still be able to be a USFSC 2020 volunteer, and we will notify you of the process for that in next month's newsletter.) If you are interested in signing up to volunteer, go to the U.S. Figure Skating website and sign in as a member. A tab for Volunteer Opportunities will appear on the right side of the page. Click that and then scroll down to the 2020 U.S. Championships. Once you submit your profile and experience, U.S. Figure Skating will review your information before giving approval for moving forward in the process. Once USFS gives its approval, you can then sign back in and complete the volunteer application process.

Labor Day Plans

No matter what you are planning or doing over this Labor Day Weekend, we strongly encourage you to take a few minutes to either purchase a USFSC 2020 ticket package OR plan how you'll get ahead of the crowd with the pre-sale prior to individual session ticket sales launch. Either way, we want you to avoid procrastination and take steps now to make your 2020 U.S. Figure Skating Championships the ultimate and most enjoyable major event fan experience ever!
